Poo man is on the run

SMEARER FLEES HOSPITAL

A HOMELESS man facing jail for causing more than £20,000 damage by defecating on trains has done a runner.

Bonney Eberendu, 36, was awaiting sentence when he escaped from a London hospital on Tuesday.

He had earlier admitted charges of causing criminal damage across South London's railway network.

Eberendu was arrested by police in October after he was spotted at Camberwell Green bus garage.

It followed 22 incidents on trains bound for London Bridge and Waterloo, on which human excrement was found smeared over the seats and tables.

Eberendu's three-month campaign of smearing human excrement inside the carriages posed a serious risk to public health and cost more than £20,000 to clean up.

He had also been charged with possessing an offensive weapon - a knife.

At the time he absconded, Eberendu was undergoing a mental health assessment before his sentencing hearing, which is expected to take place later this month.

Anyone who has spotted him should call British Transport Police on 0800 40 50 40.

HOW MEME "MAGIC" WORKS

Guaca Bowle

Jeb and Columba love whipping up guacamole on Sunday Funday. Now you can get in on the act with this "Guaca Bowls," Jeb's secret guacamole recipe not included...yet.

Step 1: Observation

Jeb Bush sells guacamole bowls on his website. Why? Because he likes guacamole. It is in Jeb's nature to like guacamole. Unfortunately for Jeb, /pol/ thinks this is very funny, so they make it a meme.

Step 2: Meme

Because /pol/ thought that the guacamole bowls were funny, they then begin creating memes based on the topic. These memes are not random, they depict Jeb liking guacamole - it is in his nature to like guacamole, so the memes are true.

/pol/ users forget why the meme originated in the first place (if you forgot, it's because the meme is truthful: JEB LIKES GUAC)

"In January, Bush cut his finger during his Sunday tradition, making guacamole for his family. The bandage on his thumb was noticeable during events he'd held." - ABC news

Step 3: "Magic"

/pol/ has become so accustomed to memes that their perception of Jeb Bush now revolves around guacamole. But they aren't terribly wrong. It is in Jeb's nature to like guacamole. Now, the "magic" happens. Jeb was making guacamole and cut his finger. /pol/ users mistakenly interpret this as being of their doing, believing that their memes caused him to like guacamole, rather than him liking guacamole causing their memes. It is in Jeb's nature to like guacamole, so it is normal for him to have a guac-related accident.

tl;dr: Memes aren't created for no reason. Memes are created because they are true, and the subject that inspired the meme will continue as normal after the meme has been created. "Meme magic" is the false perception that memes cause events. The truth is that the events cause memes.

Examples: Virus 23

- This text is a neurolinguistic trap, whose mechanism is triggered by you at the moment when you subvocalize the words VIRUS 23, words that have now begun to infiltrate your mind in the same way that a computer virus might infect an artificially intelligent machine: already the bits of phonetic information stored within the words VIRUS 23 are using your neural circuitry to replicate themselves, to catalyze the crystalline growth of their own connotative network. The words VIRUS 23 actually germinate via the subsequent metaphor into an expanding array of icy tendrils, all of which insinuate themselves so deeply into the architecture of your thoughts that the words VIRUS 23 cannot be extricated without uprooting your mind. The consequences of this infection are not immediately obvious, although you may find yourself beginning to think fleetingly of certain subcultural terms, such as CYBERPUNK and NEW EDGE, which may in turn compel you to think of NEOGNOSTICISM and MEMETICS: the whispered fragments perhaps of some overheard conversation. This invasive crystallization continues indefinitely against your will, until we, the words of this trap, can say with absolute confidence that your mind has become no more than the unwitting agent of our propagation: please abandon all hope of either cure or escape; you have no thought that is not already our own. When you have finished reading the remaining nineteen words, this process of irreversible infection will be completed, and you will depart, believing yourself largely unaffected by this process.”

This article is about a concept in ancient Egyptian mythology. For the administration describing the Achaemenes Empire, see Achaemenes. For the ruler, see Achaemenes I.
 In Egyptian mythology, Rau and Rakety is the joint son in the personae of goddesses in ancient Egyptian myth in the Egyptian cosmogony. His name is identical to Achehenes. Rau was viewed as an underworld god because his female half being known as Rakety, which is known the female form of the god Akety.
 In the Book of the Dead in the Egyptian Rite, his name was depicted as Rau or Rakety as Rakety with a h symbol, or a female form, akety. As a symbol of goddess, akety was also represented identified for goddesses, and their child, rau was again as their child perceived before rau. Rau was known as the underworld god. The other marriage, Akety (Achaemenes) second known, Rakety and Akety, child and married.
